Meet our first Kiwanis Doctor: Andrea Thorp, MD, FAAP

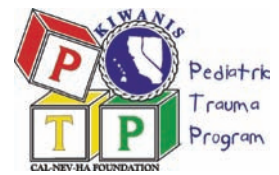

Dr. Andrea Thorp was selected from a nationwide group of candidates to train as the Kiwanis Pediatric Emergency Medicine Fellow from July 2005 to June 2007. She is completing clinical requirements under the direction of medical faculty at Loma Linda University Children's Hospital, conducts research in pediatric trauma, and provides training in the care of pediatric trauma to paramedics, nurses and physicians in rural areas of the Cal-Nev-Ha District.

Meet our second Kiwanis Doctor: Tim Young, MD

Dr. Young attended Loma Linda University School of Medicine after graduating from the University of California, Irvine. His training is in emergency medicine, and he will begin training in Pediatric Emergency Medicine at Loma Linda University Medical Center and Children's Hospital. While in college, Young volunteered at a local medical center in the pediatric ward. He also organized a week-long summer camp for children ages 5-13 from homeless and economically disadvantage families.

The Kiwanis Pediatric Emergency Medicine Fellowship provides the funding for "Kiwanis Doctors" to train physicians in the specialty field of Pediatric Emergency Medicine. Dr. Andrea Thorp, pictured above, is the first "Kiwanis Doctor."

Dr. Andrea Thorp was chosen in June 2005 to be the "Kiwanis Doctor." With the backing of a $207,000 grant from the Cal-Nev-Ha Foundation, Thorp was chosen to train as the Kiwanis Pediatric Emergency Medicine fellow.

Thorp has collaborated with Kiwanis to provide training in the field of pediatric trauma to paramedics, nurses and physicians in rural areas of the Cal-Nev-Ha District.

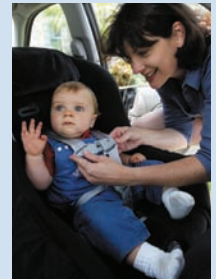

The goal of the Pediatric Emergency

Medicine Fellowship is simple: Save the lives of children by training doctors about the latest in pediatric treatment.

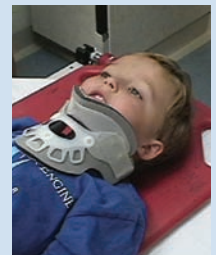

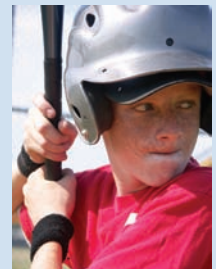

Our second "Kiwanis Doctor" is Dr. Tim Young, who is following in Thorp's footsteps at Loma Linda University Medical Center and is training doctors in Cal-Nev-Ha through 2009.

Clubs, divisions or individuals can donate toward the Pediatric Emergency Medicine Fellowship fund – or the "Kiwanis Doctor" fund for short. For more information, call the district office at (877) 597-1770, ext. 116 or go to www.cnhfoundation.org.

Through the partnership with the Kiwanis Cal-Nev-Ha Foundation, the faculty at Loma Linda University Children's Hospital is training Dr. Andrea Thorp and Dr. Tim Young as fellows in pediatric emergency medicine. They are training to become experts in:

- complications from chronic illnesses
- fractures, head injuries, burns and injuries from car accidents
- severe infections, high fevers, allergic reactions, seizures
- poisonings and overdoses.

How your donation will serve children

By contributing to the training of a physician specialist in pediatric emergency medicine, you sponsor two doctors who, for the remainder of their careers, will care for acutely ill and injured children, conduct research on pediatric trauma and treatments, and share their expertise with other healthcare professionals.
